In pictures: Olympian Heather Fell visits Wessex Primary School

Olympic medallist Heather Fell put pupils at Wessex Primary School through their paces during a sporting challenge day last week.

The British modern pentathlete spoke to the children and answered questions before the youngsters tried their hand at a variety of sporting activities.

The event was run by Team Superschools (TSS), launched by Olympic champions Jason Gardener and Darren Campbell, which works to promote exercise and healthy living in youngsters.

Pupils were sponsored to complete as many exercises as they could in the time limit, including press-ups and star jumps.

The money raised on Friday will be split between TSS and the school in St Adrians Close.

Headteacher Nick Stevens said sponsorship money was still rolling in, but that he expected them to surpass their £1,000 target, which would be used to buy new sporting equipment for PE lessons.

"It was brilliant, it was a great day," said Mr Stevens.

"The children were really motivated, listened really well and engaged with the process."

The headteacher added that a before-school circuit training club has since been launched, with 30 to 40 children taking part and more joining every day.
